Commercial Electrician in Leyland

Antrobus Electrical offers a comprehensive range of commercial electrical services to businesses throughout the North West. Businesses just like yours.

Based in Leyland, with over 15 years of experience, we specialise in creating, updating and renovating electrical systems in both commercial and industrial settings.

However, if you're just after a residential sparky, worry not. We're also happy to turn our expert hands to domestic work when needed.

Free quotations are offered for all types of electrical work and you can rest assured that all of our work is fully guaranteed.

Why Do I Need a Commercial Electrician?

Unexpected system failures can cause your business some significant downtime, losing you money as a result.

Our regular maintenance visits will reduce the likelihood of this ever happening. Your business will stay productive, and we'll make sure that you're working in line with all current regulations and legislation.

If you haven't been having regular maintenance visits, and now you have an electrical emergency and you're in a bit of a pickle, give us a call. We'll get you back to business as usual in no time.

Whether there is an issue with your CCTV, you'd like security lighting installed, or you need a whole new data network, our electricians are equipped to handle the job.

We will work with you from conception to completion, taking into account your vision and budget, to arrive at the best solution for you and your property.

Company Ethos

Antrobus Electrical is a friendly, family run business. We pride ourselves on delivering the highest quality service at competitive prices with absolutely no hidden costs.
